ALDERMEN QUIZ RITCHIE ON BUS VS. STREET CAR

He Claims Bankers
Back His Offer.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The Chicago Motor Coach company, through Mr. A. Ritchie, its president, is expounding its proposal to junk the great cars and substitute a system of bus lines, told the local transportation committee yesterday that the city could "write its own ticket" on a "guaranteed" as long as it provided a "reasonable return on investment."

It was in the nature of a preliminary hearing. Several of the aldermen were lined with questions. Fares, pneumatic tires, speed, compensation, and wear on pavement were main topics broached. The session drew a large attendance, among them representatives of the Chicago Surface Lines and of the street car men's union. At the end the whole subject was referred to a subcommittee, which will start hearings Tuesday, Dec. 21.

Says Bankers Back Buses.

By way of preface, Mr. Ritchie said the city wide bus system proposition had been approved by bankers who were ready to finance it. He mentioned the Farmers' Trust and Savings bank, and two New York banks, the Guaranty Trust company, and J. and W. Bellmore of among the plan's backers.

These are three factors which constitute mass transportation.

Mr. Ritchie said, is opening the discussion. "They are: track or roadway capacity, the carrying capacity of the individual unit, and speed."

Obviously the roadway has more capacity than tracks. Notwithstanding, in the claims of the surface companies, the speed of the buses is greater than that of the trolley cars. We find that by its flexibility, and in the streets of the public than the street cars.

Transportation agencies are in a mess, anything done now, tying up the streets with tracks is just going to make up the situation. But the bus, by its flexibility, can fit into any situation ultimately worked out."

Start Question Barrage.

"What percentage of New York's traffic do the buses carry?" Ald. Arthur Albert asked.

"Around 5 per cent." Mr. Ritchie replied.

"They don't run in districts where passengers are thickest, do they?" Ald. Albert resumed.

"That is not so." Mr. Ritchie replied. "The bus line extends about twelve miles. The average haul in New York by bus is about 5 miles, whereas the average bus haul is 6 miles, as against 4 miles for street cars."

"What's the bus speed in New York?" Ald. Albert countered.

The average speed on Fifth Avenue about 8 miles; the lowest I'm told is 4 miles." Mr. Ritchie replied.

Chicago, the average mileage per bus in 8.5 miles as against 5 miles for street cars."

"But," Ald. Albert said. "You run on the boulevards where there are no drawn vehicles."

Figures on 4,685 Buses.

"How many buses would be needed to carry all the street car passengers?" Ald. T. J. Bowler asked.

"We figure on 4,685 buses," Mr. Ritchie replied. "They would replace street cars. That number of buses would provide a rush hour seat, compared to 156,000 now given by the surface lines, or little over 134,000 more seats than are given on the street cars. The bus system can be installed within six months."

What about pneumatic tires?" Ald. Robert H. Jackson queried. "The flat tires jolt the passengers."

"Mr. Jackson, 'shake the passengers, shake the houses, pictures on the walls.'"

"Water mains are close to the surface, they might carry vibrations." Mr. Ritchie declared.

"Buses Shake Too Much." Ald. Jackson said. "If you're going out on 2,000 buses like those next door they'll be shaking passengers and buildings to pieces."

"We'll develop a type of bus that won't." Mr. Ritchie said.

Present South Park way, Ald. Jackson said, "car fares worse than gas given out."

"How about Madison street?" Ald. Jackson said.

Alfred Lukacek, 20, was alone in the darkened 24th street when the bandits entered. After robbing him they took his automobile keys. They wouldn't work readily and Lukacek obtained his revolver while they tarried. Two shots, one by him and one by a robber, and the pair fled. Anyhow, he got his automobile keys.

Maria Sheiby, 28, North Dearborn street, was the girl seized at Superior and Dearborn streets. The robber fled when some men approached.

John Kinson, 3333 West 65th street, was the conductor who gave the "penny" change to the pair. The latter, after obtaining the money, demanded that the car be halted in the middle of a block so he could alight. He was accommodated.

Edward Miskowski, the restaurant owner on Solon place, was kidnapped by his bandit and carried several blocks before being thrown from his own automobile.

With his partner, Hal Currys, as he drove to his home, as he reached it a Checker taxicab stopped just in front of him and four armed men sprang out. Two of them covered the chairman and two devoted their attention to Barnes, who succeeded in escaping.

Barnes' car, but were unable to manipulate the gear shift system and fled to the taxicab, which sped away.

John Grazia, 2658 West Superior street, a Municipal court bailiff, was robbed of $200 and a diamond ring was taken. The next morning, when he was beaten, by two armed men near his home. He fired four shots at the robbers as they fled.

Numerous smaller holdups were reported during the day.

MARRIAGE MINUS LICENSE IS O. K. D. BY JUDGE SABATH

Judge Joseph Sabath, yesterday ordered the validity of a Jewish marriage performed by a rabbi without the issuance of a license from the county clerk when he granted Mrs. Miriam M. The decision is said to affect thousands of Jewish and other religious marriages. The Paskinds were married in April, 1925, and separated a year later. By granting a divorce to Mrs. Paskind the judge acknowledged that marriage without a license may be legal.

Mrs. Paskind charged cruelty, testifying that her husband had struck her upon several occasions.

COOLIDGE WANTS GREATER LIBERTY FOR PHILIPPINES

Will Ask Congress to Act
This Session.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.]—President Coolidge is maturing plans, it transpires today, to give the Filipinos a new deal, involving the grant of virtually complete autonomy at an early date and independence when the time comes.

It is the earnest desire of the President to settle the problem of the Philippines, to establish a relationship between the islands and the United States satisfactory to the Filipinos, to restore native cooperation in the government, and to develop the vast mineral resources of the archipelago, particularly the production of rubber, for the benefit of the Filipinos.

The President will make the first formal move toward carrying out this program next week, when he will transmit to Congress the report of Col. George L. Leonard Wood, who has dispatched to the Philippines by the executive to study the problems and advise him on its solution.

Plans Complete. Bills.

Mr. Coolidge will recommend such amendments of the Philippines organic act and other legislation as, in his opinion, will achieve his purpose and will endeavor to procure passage of the bills at this session.

Col. Thompson advised extension of the autonomy of the Philippines as rapidly as circumstances warrant. He believed that an agreement could be reached with the Filipinos on the question of autonomy and eventual independence whereby their complete cooperation in the government will be re-established and the way cleared for the development of rubber production on a large scale with American capital and the establishment of an American capital in the Philippines.

The Filipinos possess a large measure of autonomy. Of the six heads of executive departments five are Filipinos. Of the members of the legislative council four are Filipinos, including the chief justice. Minor officials are nearly all natives. Gov. Wood reports that the percentage of Americans in the government, including school teachers, declined from 3.9 in 1923 to 1.25 in 1925.

Plans Complete. Liberation.

The President contemplates the complete liberation of the Philippines from American domination.

The American flag would be taken down and the flag of the Philippine republic would float in its stead. But the United States would retain a protective relationship with the islands analogous to the relationship between this country and Cuba.

The Platt amendment, the amendment the United States possesses and has exercised the right to intervene in the Philippines for the restoration of order and protects Cuba from foreign aggression.

Application of the principle of the Platt amendment to the Philippines essentially is what the President contemplates. He is opposed to turning them loose to shift for themselves.

Provide for Defense.

Under the relationship contemplated by the President the United States would remain responsible for the protection of the Philippines.

MOROS' APPEAL

MUST NOT SELL ISLAND TO JAPS, WARNING OF U. S.

Investigation Ordered by Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The Philippines and Moros are planning to send opposing missions to Washington in the interest of government for each.

The Moro commission, which seeks separate government for islands populated chiefly by Moros, has appealed to Gen. George L. Leonard Wood to appear before the Senate committee on Philippine affairs to demand a reversal of the $60,000 appropriated recently by the legislature to send a mission to Washington regarding Philippine affairs.

The Moro commission desires to furnish congress with information concerning the status of the Philippines, as far as it affects the islands of Mindanao, Sulu, and Palawan, for which the Moros desire a separate government. The Filipinos wish an independent government for the Philippines, of which those islands are parts.

Most of the Filipinos are Christians, while the Moros are Mohammedans.

tion of the Philippines from defense, but the whole burden of defense should not rest on the United States, the president holds. There should be a contribution between the Filipinos and Americans in providing for defense.

The contribution to national defense, which the Filipinos are qualified to give most easily is the production of rubber, an adequate supply of which in time of war is essential.

The President has suggested that the Filipinos might withdraw from the United States and establish a separate government.

The President's suggestion is to embrace eventually the withdrawal of all American military control and the election of the governor of the islands by the Filipinos. When that step in delivering their government into the hands of the Filipinos shall be taken will be the subject of study when the program comes before congress.

Plans Complete. Liberation.

The independence agitators are responsible for the policy of noncooperation, as a result of which the Philippines has refused to confirm many of Gen. Wood's appointments. They are to be retained a protective relationship with the islands analogous to the relationship between this country and Cuba.

The Platt amendment, the amendment the United States possesses and has exercised the right to intervene in the Philippines for the restoration of order and protects Cuba from foreign aggression.

Application of the principle of the Platt amendment to the Philippines essentially is what the President contemplates. He is opposed to turning them loose to shift for themselves.

Wuchang, the strategic and commercial hub of central China, is well located for use by the Cantonese as a transfer of sovereignty in this island to any other government. It was explained that even though the island is held under Torrens title by Vincente Macagni, a Filipino, whose ancestors received the title from the Spanish government, it will be impossible for him to transfer sovereignty in the island to another nation without the consent of the United States. This consent naturally would not be given, it was stated.

NELSON OFFERS NEW PLAN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Would Have 5 Trustees with Salary.

Abolition of the Chicago school board in its present form and the substitution of five full time trustees, each paid $10,000 a year, was proposed yesterday by Ald. Oscar Nelson (46th), leader of the city council's public schools investigation.

Ald. Nelson's proposal, which he will ask the council to recommend to the legislature, came at the close of another fiery session of the schools committee, featured by angry verbal clashes between Julius F. Smietanka, acting president of the board, and Miss Margaret Haley of the teachers' federation.

Delay Calling McAndrew.

Sept. William McAndrew had been scheduled to appear, but his testimony was postponed in order to finish the inquiry into the board's financial status. He has been called to discuss his educational program before the committee next Thursday.

The disclosures already made in this investigation show the failure of the school board properly to fulfill their duties," Ald. Nelson said in support of his reorganization.

"The board obviously is running the schools on the basis of reports from the superintendent and other school employees, and who can stop them? Once in office, they can run riot and tell the mayor, the council, and everybody else to keep their hands off."

Only well to do citizens can serve without salaries," Ald. Nelson asserted, citing Ald. J. J. O'Farrell. "None of the three new appointees not yet approved by the committee, as the third banker to be appointed by Mayor Dever. The other two are Theophilus Schmid and Edgar N. Greenbaum.

Appointed by Mayor.

Under the Nelson plan, the five trustees would still be appointed by the mayor, but would be retained and chosen by a two-thirds vote of the council. At present the removal of trustees requires impeachment proceedings and speak-easies.

Yesterday's meeting of the schools committee, like the one before, was a combination of contradictory statements brought out by a grilling of paid staff of questions and answers. The committee room was again jammed with parents, teachers, and school officials.

The high point of the proceedings came when President Smietanka and Miss Haley passed the lie in a dispute over a $3,500,000 item in a report signed by the late Col. E. B. Ellicot. Miss Haley charged that the item was put in to effect a $1 tax increase.

"I charge that these figures were paid, and I never made any charge against our school," said Miss Haley, shouting, waving the report.

"O, yes, you have," interrupted Mr. Smietanka.

"Coast to the Rescue.

"He doesn't resent it," Miss Haley said.

J. Lewis Coath, retiring trustee, at this time called out that he thought "this heckling of Miss Haley ought to be stopped."

"He's too much of a gentleman not to resent being called a liar," said Mr. Smietanka.

Coast to the Rescue.

"He doesn't resent it," Miss Haley said.

J. Lewis Coath, retiring trustee, at this time called out that he thought "this heckling of Miss Haley ought to be stopped."

When the excitement had died down the committee again resumed trying to ferret out the occasion of the $3,500,000 item, but at the end of an hour was where it began. Nobody seemed quite sure for what it was, where it was, why it was, or if it was at all.

Ald. Nelson, however, hit the point that the item stood for 36 new school buildings, which were also provided for in another figure. The duplication, he argued, must have been for the motive of hoodwinking the council into approving the item.

"The same city has been in tumult since last February since this report was made," he declared. "The school board has been cutting out courses; the teachers, parents and even the mayor were involved. Now it looks like somebody was trying to fool us."

Mr. Henry and H. H. Buckner, the board's auditor, assumed responsibility for the figures. There may have been

NEW YORK DRAWS ITS CHRISTMAS DOSE OF DRY PADLOCKS

Gets 60 Days, $50 Fine
After Legal Battle.

Polack Joe Salsis met his Waterloo yesterday. For the first time in his twenty year career in Chicago as an alleged bootlegger, hijacker, and gunman, the outside gangster chief was indicted on a charge of carrying a pistol and a fine.

Salsis, who several weeks ago stood comfortably through a murder trial acquittal on the charge of killing an alleged beer running rival, Mitters Foley, was sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail and fined $50 and costs by Municipal Judge George A. Curran on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

But Salsis did not submit tamely. It took a two and a half hour legal battle with Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy, the prosecutor, and W. O'Brien, Salsis' counsel, to the point that the trial was adjourned.

It was finally decided to ask for an itemization of the figures at the next hearing.

Ald. Jacob Arvey (47th), Mayor Dever's floor leader, demanded at the end of the meeting when the committee intended to call up the mayor's appointees for action.

"If you gentlemen are sincere in this investigation, you're right," he asserted. "But if you're just stalling on these appointments we ought to know it."

"We're trying to find out what the situation in our schools is," explained Ald. H. H. Buckner (47th). "After we do that, we'll know what to do at what we want put in charge of them."

"You don't mean that," retorted Ald. Arvey. "Those are just words."

Ald. Leo M. Brieske (45th), chairman of the committee, said the appointment would be invited in the new year at the earliest.

"The same city has been in tumult since last February since this report was made," he declared. "The school board has been cutting out courses; the teachers, parents and even the mayor were involved. Now it looks like somebody was trying to fool us."

Mr. Henry and H. H. Buckner, the board's auditor, assumed responsibility for the figures. There may have been

SYBIL BAUER, NOTED SWIMMER, REPORTED AS MUCH IMPROVED

Miss Sybil Bauer, world's champion back stroke swimmer, now at Michael Reese hospital recuperating from an operation which she underwent last week, was reported last night to be so far on the road to recovery that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bauer of 3601 North Harding avenue, hope to have her home by Christmas day.

The surgeons in charge of the case, Dr. David J. O'Farrell and Dr. George L. Gossard of Michael Reese hospital, have commented favorably on her condition. And at the Bauer home there was word of her convalescence, in denial of an earlier rumor that she was dangerously ill.

Miss Bauer was the first girl to break a man's swimming record when at Bermuda in 1922 she swam 440 yards back stroke in 6:24 against her opponent's time, 6:28.

She is engaged to Edward Sullivan, New York sports writer. A recent interview with her in the alumni bulletin of Northwestern university, of which she is a graduate, showed the marriage will take place next June.

For Attorney O'Brien was ready with a motion to suppress the evidence, and when that failed, with another motion for a new trial. This also was overruled, whereupon he took an appeal to the Appellate court.

Judge Curran permitted Salsis his freedom on his original bond until next Friday, in view of the appeal action.

"I can see no reason why any one, except an officer of the law, should carry guns," declared Judge Curran in passing sentence. "And especially," he added, picking up the .45 caliber bullet from Salsis, "carrying a thing like that."

CHARGE 2 YOUTHS PUT PARIS GREEN IN SCHOOL WELL

Thirteen Pupils Made Ill by Poison.

Warsaw, Ind., Dec. 10.—[Special.]

Athel Riley, 23, and his brother, Samuel, 18, were arrested tonight on a charge of putting Paris green in the well of the little county schoolhouse at Mount Tabor, near here. Thirteen of the fifteen pupils of the school became violently ill after drinking water from the well.

The alleged poisoning occurred on Nov. 17, but the facts of the case did not become public until the filing of complaints against the two youths today. The pupils alleged to have been poisoned were taken sick shortly after the school opened.

Judge Emanuel Eller did not blame the jury for the miscarriage of justice, as he can see it, but charged police inefficiency was responsible for spoiling what should have been a winning case.

Declares Police Were Laz.

The judge charged the police were lax because they did not obtain a conviction from Mrs. Emmerling during the time she was at the hospital and after they learned she was dying, charging her husband with the shooting.

As a result the state was forced to rely absolutely on circumstantial evidence to prove that Emmerling shot his wife while in their home, 3231 Emerald avenue, because she was not active enough in obtaining his release on bonds when he was held on a burglary charge.

The judge charged that a man who deliberately shot and killed his wife should be given his liberty," the judge declared, as his clerk was entering the not guilty verdict.

"The police were lax in this case in not taking a declaration from Mrs. Emmerling before her death. They should be summoned and who can teach the police how to obtain evidence in a murder case and properly present it in court."

HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE.

D. Campbell, 50 years old, was arrested last night on a charge of giving a worthless check for $120. Later he was indicted on a charge of mail robbery.

Salsis, who several weeks ago stood comfortably through a murder trial acquittal on the charge of killing an alleged beer running rival, Mitters Foley, was sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail and fined $50 and costs by Municipal Judge George A. Curran on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

But Salsis did not submit tamely.

It took a two and a half hour legal battle with Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy, the prosecutor, and W. O'Brien, Salsis' counsel, to the point that the trial was adjourned.

It was finally decided to ask for an itemization of the figures at the next hearing.

Ald. Jacob Arvey (47th), Mayor Dever's floor leader, demanded at the end of the meeting when the committee intended to call up the mayor's appointees for action.

Five minutes was all that William Emmerling had to wait yesterday for a jury to turn him loose on the street, finding him not guilty of the murder of his wife, Mrs. Sadie Emmerling. She was fatally wounded March 7 and died March 29 at St. Bernard's hospital.

Judge Emanuel Eller did not blame the jury for the miscarriage of justice, as he can see it, but charged police inefficiency was responsible for spoiling what should have been a winning case.

TRIBUTE PAID TO W. B. MCKINLEY AT FINAL RITES

Successor in Senate Not Yet Named.

(By A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Thousands of friends paid homage to the memory of the late United States Senator William B. McKinley at funeral services which were held here this afternoon.

Unable to obtain admittance to the First Presbyterian church where the services were held, thousands lined the streets for a block in each direction and stood with bared heads while the Rev. Bernard J. Brinkema, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. J. Walter Malone, pastor of the McKinley Memorial church and President of the National Presbyterian Congress, conducted the services. Ample services carried the words of the speakers to those outside the church.

Thousands Line Streets.

Following the church services the body was taken to Mount Hope cemetery and interred in a grave adjoining those of the senator's father and mother. Thousands of persons lined the streets as the procession passed slowly by. Short services were held at the cemetery.

A special train from Chicago this morning brought many notables to the funeral, including United States Senators W. J. Harris of Georgia, W. B. Pines of Oklahoma, J. T. Robinson of North Dakota; Congressmen Britten, Denison, Rainey, Arnold, Madden, Sabath, Chindblom, Yates, Funk, and Adkins of Illinois, Burton of Ohio, and Montague of Virginia; State Auditor Oscar Nelson, United States Marshal Palmer Anderson, Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, Senator Burton L. Wheeler, Mrs. E. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Fife, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Percy Owen, Postmaster Lauder, William Grant Edens of the Hamilton club, and H. L. Hanley of the Illinois Power and Light company.

McKinley's Man.

The eulogies of McKinley were of the man, rather than the statesman, of the neighbor, and the friend. "We might speak at great length, but we could not add one laurel to his crown or even do justice to so great a man," the Rev. Mr. Brinkema said.

Dr. Hudson, in his address, mourned the passing of the man.

On the platform comforted. He praised McKinley for having lived the simplicity and truth and charity that he taught. McKinley, wealthy, was the master of his riches. Wealthy, he turned his fortune over to community government, many gifts of which were not known until today.

McKinley was the champion of moral, spiritual, religious, and educational forces, he said.

No Home Services.

There had been no home services. The McKinley house has been closed for two years. The body was brought to the design and architect firm of Martineau and when he died it was taken to the Mittenford Funeral home, where it remained until this morning, when it was taken to the church. This was in accordance with McKinley's wish.

Members of the family, except for Senator-Elect Smith, who is most prominently mentioned as the man Gov. Small will appoint to succeed to McKinley's seat, talked of nothing but his friendship for the deceased. Tomorrow he said he might be at liberty to tell what he and Gov. Small had agreed upon. The governor is ill and could not attend.

Members of the McKinley family who were present included Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mattie, brother-in-law and sister; Miss Julia Mattie, niece, and Mrs. M. C. Clegg, cousin, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McKinley, Huntingdon, W. Va., the former's nephew, and Mrs. S. A. Power, a cousin of Huntingdon.

1 KILLED, 20 HURT IN EXPLOSION AT HAMMOND' PLANT

John Franks, 40 years old, a foreman, was killed and twenty other employees were injured yesterday in an explosion which partly wrecked the plant of the Central Railway Signal Manufacturing company at Hammond.

The explosion, which occurred at 12:30 a.m., was caused by an automobile which was being driven by a man in the office, 250 feet from the scene of the explosion.

The company manufactures railroad track, signals and other explosive signals and supplies of explosives were stored in the mixing room where the blast occurred. The body of Franks, who was at work in the mixing room, was blown 200 feet. The building was destroyed. The blast rocked the entire district and shattered windows in buildings a mile away. Homes in Gary, ten miles away, were shaken.

The cause of the explosion still is undetermined. Franks was last seen by fellow employees dragging a container of powder into the mixing room.

The blast occurred shortly after.

Every ambulance in Hammond was rushed to the factory and fire companies were ordered out. Police also were called to hold back crowds of relatives and friends of the employee who rushed to the scene.

The telephone company, responsible for the explosion, was the largest in the country.

Officials of the company announced that the entire plant would be closed for fifteen days as a result of the blast.

One of the concerns' thirty-three buildings was seriously damaged. The plant had an output of 350 gross of signal torpedoes a day and employed 120 persons.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 10. —(AP)—Through a compromise a federal court today awarded Miss Anne Caldwell, New York musical revue actress, $50,000 in her million dollar breach of promise suit against John W. Hubbard, wealthy shovels manufacturer.

The jury quickly reached the conclusion that a marriage contract was made but found difficulty in fixing the amount of damages. Before the tenth ballot was taken one of the jurors asked for a break and the others voted to be seated. The answer was $50,000 and became the amount of a sealed escrowed sum charged for street improvement work.

May Ask New Trial.

Indications were that Rody P. Marshall, counsel for Hubbard, would seek a new trial. Earl F. Reed, counsel for Miss Caldwell, said he would not move to any move in that direction.

Neither Miss Caldwell nor Hubbard were in court when the verdict was read.

"I made the fight I did as a matter of principle," Hubbard said. "I was informed that when I settled the case with my friends, I would be brought into it through letters, it aroused my ire. I just let my temper get away with my judgment." He said he would decide whether to accept the verdict after consulting his attorney.

Calls It Vindication.

Miss Caldwell's attorney, who is in his office, said the action of the jury was her "vindication" and hoped that the case "will serve as a lesson to a lot of young girls who may be overwhelmed by wealth and luxury."

Miss Caldwell charged that Hubbard proposed marriage in Atlantic City in 1921 and repudiated the engagement two years later. Before the case went to trial she filed an additional charge of seduction.

COFFIN QUIZZED ON SALARY AT EXPERT TRIAL

Seek to Trace Money to Political Chest.

Percy B. Coffin, public administrator under the Small Administration and former chairman of the city civil service commission, was subpoenaed as a witness yesterday before Circuit Judge Hugo M. Friend in the suit of the Thompson political organization against John W. Hubbard, wealthy shovel manufacturer.

The jury quickly reached the conclusion that a marriage contract was made but found difficulty in

THOMPSON OUT FOR MAYOR WITH GRAND FLOURISH

Several G. O. P. Leaders
Not at Rally.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.
To Abe Arends the future looked bright last night. His friend, William Hale Thompson, had accepted a mandate or something or other and was announcing himself as a candidate for mayor—and a wet candidate.

Several hundred people had gathered in and about the Hotel Sherman to hear Thompson admit he was a candidate. Maj. Hamlet C. Ridgeway, a former prohibition agent, said to Thompson:

"We told us at the Medina temple

"If we secured $50,000 pledge cards you would run me." Thompson had here

"43,000 pledge cards and therefore, in the name of the voters of Chicago, I throw your hat in the ring."

And He Accepts.

And he did it, too—threw Thompson's hat down into a ring that contained the pledge cards—real pledge cards. Thompson said they were, because he had personally inspected over 100,000 of them.

"I accept, and with grateful thanks," Thompson beamed. Then he and Wentzaff read the Thompson platform. Wentzaff couldn't read loud enough so Attorney Michael Fineberg took over the stenotypist task.

"And if I catch a policeman crossing the threshold of a man's home or his place of business, I'll discharge that policeman," Thompson said via Fineberg. He also promised that if he could he would, if possible, "run Sept. McDowell out of town."

Then and there Abe Arends was happy. "Wasn't Abe the master of ceremonies at this birth of Thompson's candidacy? He was, and a good one, too. And hadn't Abe preceded Thompson in many places in the recent election campaign, and didn't Abe always motion the audience to arise and clap when Thompson appeared? He had done so, and well.

His Early Training.

And, therefore, last night, Abe had visions of the good old days coming back. Abe's training for the position of master of ceremonies at last night's function had been acquired not so long ago when he was manager of Col. Smith's.

Even before that, Abe had a place of his own. And, once, Abe had the honor of being a Democratic precinct captain in the First ward. And, now, here he was, at the height of his career, cheer leader for a mayoralty candidate.

No college youth ever took his cheer duties more seriously than does Abe Arends. And he was about to see Big Bill and wish him and them, silver bell and Abe, whatever his own college may have been, outshone all college cheer leaders.

Burdine Is Chairman.

County Treasurer George Harding was apparently chairman of the gathering. Every good voter on a Republican pay roll had been ordered to be there and they were, excepting a few of the leaders and those who get their instructions from Deneen, Lundin, or Small.

And it was fitting that Treasurer Harding should be chairman. His own campaign was on the plus "Elect me & I can help my friend Bill Thompson be elected mayor," and he had lost in the city of Chicago by 10,000 votes. He was chairman, but Big Bill told him

SMITH CONFERS WITH SMALL AT KANKAKEE HOME

Frank L. Smith, U. S. senator-elect from Illinois, conferred with Gov. Len Small in Kankakee last night, the main subject of conversation, it is said, being the question of a successor to serve out the unexpired term of the late Senator William B. McKinley, who was buried in Champaign yesterday. Col. Smith attended the funeral and stopped off at Kankakee to see the governor.

According to friends of both the governor and Col. Smith, the latter can have the appointment if he wants it, but it is said that he has not yet made up his mind. Many of Smith's friends are urging him to take the post on the grounds that the friend he could make and the political enemies he could build up there, however, now and the adjournment of the present congress on March 4 would greatly aid him in the fight he is sure to face on the question of campaign expenses.

Advices from Washington, however, indicate that the administration senators would rather see Small on the Senate for the unexpired term. They fear, it is said, that if Smith presents credentials of appointment from the governor it will start a fight that will tie up legislation.

Matter Was Confidential.

The witness, after referring to her notes, said the person she believed to be the shrewd observer reminded Forest that "this is a confidential matter between us and me."

First testimony of actual unexcused absences from the jail by Druggan was given at the close of yesterday's session by J. T. Barrow and R. C. Carrasco, who said that while employees of the apartment building at 981 Lake Shore drive they saw the drowsy bootlegger make about 30 visits to the home in the building.

During the Hoffman-Westbrook-Druggan-Lake contempt trial, a year ago, Tom Hoffman, the thrill out of the love haven demented, was by family telling about it himself, even to the point of revealing the lady's name. So there wasn't much new in the resumption of the chapter yesterday.

First talk of bribes in the current case came with the testimony of A. D.

lated alleged conversations with Druggan in which the beer baron was said to have confided that he paid every jail employee in authority $200 a month

$1,500 for the privilege of visiting his sick sister; also that Druggan paid $2,000 to Westbrook to let Lake out of jail before his sentence expired.

The trial will be resumed Monday.

WILBUR REFUSES CABLE DISPATCH FACTS IN OIL CASE

Secret, He Says; Doheny
Cross-Examined.

BY PHILIP KINLEY.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—Secretary of the Navy, Curtis D. Wilbur took the witness stand in the closing hours of defense testimony in the Fall-Doheny trial today and refused to disclose the contents of secret dispatches and reports made to the navy department by Admiral Albert Gleaves, 72, concerning the naval situation in the Pacific.

Called by the defense in this case, Secretary Wilbur's attitude in maintaining secrecy regarding the "war scare" reports while admitting the existence of reports of highly important nature, is considered strong support of the defense's trump card that it was the "secret service" of the admiralty which might lead to war that caused the navy to give up its oil reserves to Edward L. Doheny in exchange for emergency fuel oil stored at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

May Call Hughes for 1921 Facts.

Government counsel are considering calling Charles E. Hughes, former secretary of state, to the stand in rebuttal tomorrow morning to explain the real international situation at the time the arms conference was called and to controvert the "war scare" theory.

Mr. Wilbur brought a number of documents into court under subpoena. When he was asked to give to the court letters, telegrams, and reports made by Admiral Gleaves between Sept. 15, 1920, and March 21, 1921, he refused on the ground that these were of confidential nature and that their disclosure would be injurious to the public interest. "There were quite a number of these dispatches, he admitted.

The defense practically closed its case tonight and the government will have about two hours of rebuttal tomorrow. Arguments to the jury will begin at 10:30 A.M. and the case should go to the jury Tuesday morning.

It is reported that Albert E. Fall, former secretary of the interior, may be called to the stand tomorrow, although the general opinion has been that he would not testify.

The strategy of the defense thus far seems to be to keep Doheny to the front, resting on his motives and character and his impression on the jury, with Fall very much in the wings.

The defense seems satisfied that there will be an acquittal for both men.

Postmaster General Harry S. New, who was in the senate with Fall, and Charles E. Bassett, El Paso banker, were called as character witnesses.

Doheny Cross-Examined.

Mr. Doheny admitted during cross-examination by Owen J. Roberts today that he received from Mr. Fall $5,000 to come to this trial. Inquiries as to any other financial transactions between Doheny and Fall since the latter left the cabinet were stopped by the court.

Mr. Doheny, his arms in a sling and resting on a pillow, fenced skillfully with his attorney. His voice was low and cautious, and once, or twice he became excited and lapsed into lengthy and heated explanations. Mr. Roberts dealt with him gently and politely, but drew from him admissions which he thinks will have great weight when summed up before the jury and make a strong coherent argument.

Mr. Doheny was at one point, when conflicts with some testimony were shown, that he did not tell his examiners all at that time, because they were not polite to him.

Allied Control of Germany Arms May Be Loosened Today

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—The difficulties over replacing allied control of German arms with league of nations supervision disarmament will be surmounted tomorrow, in the opinion of league council leaders tonight, despite the pessimistic report of the ambassador council in Paris.

A decision on resolution is expected to be reached under which Foreign Minister Stresemann will give assurances of Germany's readiness to execute the remaining demands of the international commission and permit withdrawal from Berlin.

Then the league's investigating committee will become operative and will undertake the overseeing of Germany's fulfillment of its disarmament pledges in the future.

Foreign Ministers Unwound.

The men who pull the strings and give the respective ambassadors their instructions, will be the ones to make progress in the dismantling of the German fortifications at Koenigsberg.

The League's investigating committee gives ample assurance that it is sincerely gratified to learn that it is unwound.

GOVERNOR URGED TO AID IN HUNT FOR YOUNG OLSON

Reward of $1,000 Posted by County Board.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Prairie du Chien, Wis., Dec. 10.—[Special.] Crawford county through its board of supervisors today appealed to Gov. J. J. Blaine to put the moral support of the whole state of Wisconsin behind the search for Erdman Olson, 15 years old, charged with being the slayer of his sweetheart, Clara Olson. The governor was asked to offer $500 to the law provides he may give, and the board had voted yesterday to offer $1,000, which is the limit it may give.

It was believed that the governor undoubtedly will respond and that the reward for Olson, now set at $1,000, will soon officially become $1,500, to which will be added a sum being raised by popular subscription in this locality. Sheriff Elmer Sherwood said District Attorney J. S. Earil may the total reward probably will reach $3,000 or more.

Add Their Mileage.

The county supervisors, many of whom are farmers, went about their special meeting in the Circuit court room in Prairie du Chien this afternoon grave-faced. When Chairman James Fisher, banker-farmer from Eastman, suggested they add their "per diem"—the $1.68 a mile sum of their receipts for attending a meeting—to the reward, they arose as one man. This, it was estimated, would add another $1,000 or more.

The board adopted its resolutions after a speech by the district attorney.

"This foul murder," he said, "is a blot on our county and we must be as determined as possible to learn the man who committed it is brought to justice. It is a serious crime and a substantial reward is necessary. I think it is a pity that the law will not allow the county board to appropriate more than $1,000, and I therefore have already started a popular subscription."

Mr. Earil then told of his plan for getting a substantial sum from the citizens. He said he had sent petitions to the banks of the county and that one banker reported he had gathered $150 from the first group of men he had talked with.

$1,000 for Expenses.

In addition to the reward, the board allowed the expense of $1,000 for expenses in conducting the search and the investigation of the murder necessary to build up an ironclad court case. After the meeting each of the supervisors took a petition and agreed to become chairman of the fund for his precinct.

Arthur E. Curran, county attorney, selected his office in January, commanding the board for their alacrity and courtesy.

"This murder," he said, "surpasses in brutality the Loeb-Leopold murder in Chicago. It is to be regretted that you cannot do more than you are doing."

Question Hired Man.

Edwin Knutson, hired hand at the farm of Albert Olson, father of the youthful fugitive, took some voluntary time off from his work. Mr. Olson's hired man admitted he had gone out with Clara, but denied there had ever been any serious friendship between them.

District Attorney Earil released Knutson after the questioning.

POKES RIDICULE AT G. O. P. BOWING TO INSURGENTS

Harrison Doubts New Love for Those Once Scorned

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—[Special.] Senator Harrison [Minn.], Democratic keynoter, poked fun at the Republicans in the Senate today over their present conciliatory attitude toward insurgents read out of the party two years ago.

Senator Harrison ridiculed the Republicans for overtures made to Senator Frazer [Rep., N. D.] and Senator Shipstead [Farmers-Labor, Minn.]. He quoted statements made by Republican leaders two years ago at the time four insurgents were banished from the party and deprived of seniority on committees.

"You divorced these men from the party, and now you won't even fit to associate with your own," said Senator Harrison. "Now the country is asking why this sudden change, why all this solicitude in being showered upon these gentlemen, and why the White House gang, formerly closed to them, are now there, wide open?"

"I don't believe that these gentlemen are going to be flattered into submission. They have been voting since they were fired out of the Republican party just as they voted before. I can't believe that the Senator from North Dakota will sacrifice the principles of the Republican party. Divided in principle; united in spoils."

Referring to Senator Shipstead, who by profession is a dentist, Senator Harrison said that the Republicans have had a political toothache ever since the election and are crowding around him to effect a cure.

3 Chicago Crooks Escape at Pontiac; Reward Offered

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 10.—[Special.]

Gov. Small issued a proclamation today offering a reward of $50 each for the apprehension of John Peich, Earl Briggs and John Gavin, all of Chicago, who escaped today from the Illinois state reformatory at Pontiac. Peich was serving a sentence of from ten years to life on a charge of robbery. Briggs was sentenced to from one year to ten years on a charge of grand larceny and Gavin was sentenced for a period of from three to twenty years on a charge of robbery.

Mrs. Earil then told of his plan for getting a substantial sum from the citizens. He said he had sent petitions to the banks of the county and that one banker reported he had gathered $150 from the first group of men he had talked with.

ALDERMEN QUIZ RITCHIE ON BUS VS. STREET CARS

He Says Bankers Back
His Offer.

Joseph Smith interjected. "If buses were put on, wouldn't the street be jammed from curb to curb?"

"We'll occupy 22 cent less street space than the street cars," Mr. Ritchie responded.

"Well," Ald. Albert replied, "I drive. When I'm behind a street car, I know where it's going; but if I try to pass a bus, maybe swings out to pass a car at the curb and forces me into oncoming traffic."

"But did you ever try to pass a street car?" Mr. Ritchie asked. "The removal of tracks increases street capacity. That's up the bus on the street on an average. The last street car strike demonstrated how removal of street cars increased street capacity."

Comparative Operating Costs.

"What's the cost of operation per mile?" Ald. Albert asked.

"For street cars it averages 34 cents; for busses, 24.9 cents," said Mr. Ritchie. "That is operating cost alone."

"Well," Ald. Thomas Byrne remarked, "the car line streets are paved so far, then a job with no pavement. To use busses they'd first have to pave the streets. It would mean millions of dollars. We'd certainly have to repave many streets before busses could operate. It's bad enough on the boulevards. All this has to be considered."

"It is one of the things to discuss completely in the negotiations," Mr. Ritchie said.

"How about headroom?" Ald. Smith inquired. "I have to go into bus bent double. The man who stands has his head on another fellow's shoulder. I prefer to stand straight and hang to a strap."

Mr. Ritchie replied the double deck bus of the type proposed would give room enough for standing passengers, a maximum of fifteen to a car, and Ald. Henry L. Fick asked what the passenger fare would be.

Fare Open to Discussion.

"That's one of the things we want to negotiate about," Mr. Ritchie said. It depends on the terms of the franchise. It may be 7 cents. It may be greater, but in no event greater than the street cars."

"When you say a 7 cent fare do you have in mind street paving, cleaning, etc.?" Ald. Albert asked.

"You gentlemen can write any kind of a franchise," Mr. Ritchie conceded, "and we will meet your terms. The city can write its own ticket as long as the terms provide a reasonable return on the investment."

After a year the bus project to a subcommittee composed of Aldermen John Toman, Jacob M. Arvey, Joseph Capak, Guy Guernsey, and P. F. Ryan, the committee received copies of the Lismann plan ordinance. John Maynard Harlan, counsel for the Lismann plan, urged action.

NAB PASSER OF BAD CHECK IN WILD LOOP CHASE

Pursued by an investigating department store clerk, to whom he had given a check that proved to be worthless, Edwin Huston, 4700 Broadway, fled through the busiest portion of State street yesterday. And behind both, shouting and brandishing his pistol, came Policeman Albert Magoo, traffic director at State and Washington streets.

Germany Becomes Member of League's World Court
GENEVA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Germany today became a member of the permanent court of international justice when Foreign Minister Stresemann signed the protocol. The Germans had been waiting to see what the United States would do about the court, but apparently decided that nonacceptance of the American conditions postponed the adhesion of the United States indefinitely.

American Not Worshiper of Dollar, Says Chesterton

OXFORD, England, Dec. 10.—(AP)—"Of all lies, the worst lie is that the American worships money," Gilbert K. Chesterton, the English novelist, said this morning. "An American," he told the American club here, "never talks of money in the hushed and awestruck tone that an Englishman employs in referring to financial matters."

From Washington street, where Huston and the clerk, Stephen Hartzich, both slipped and fell, to Madison street, the chase ended. The Hartzich, amid shouts of the crowd, disheveled his man. Maroon, seeing both disheveled, took them to the Central station as prisoners. There Huston admitted he was a bad check passer and Hartzich was released.

ASK MORE STATE ROADS INTO CITY ON SOUTH SIDE

Promotion of a program to increase the number of state highways entering Chicago from the south has been adopted by the Greater South Side Chamber of Commerce, which is in the midst of a campaign to obtain 2,000 additional members.

At present only two state highways, the Dixie highway and the Chicago-Joliet road, enter Chicago through the south side, while the north and west sections of the city are connected with their trade territories by twenty-two state roads, according to Isaac N. Powell, president of the chamber. Additional highways will open up the south side's trade territory and increase the population there, it is declared by proponents of the movement.

WINGS FOR THE BOYS IN THE BACK ROOM.

The Nobel peace prize for 1925 has been awarded to Charles G. Dawes, Vice President of the United States, and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British secretary for foreign affairs. The peace prize for 1926 has been given to Aristide Briand, French minister of foreign affairs, and Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister.

Gen. Dawes gets his for his work on the plan of settlement which bears his name, but the other three awards go to men whose duty and responsibility it is to "keep the peace unless they are busy trying to get a little more territory." The departure from the rule which has governed the awards in general is almost spectacular.

In 1906 the prize went to Theodore Roosevelt; for what he did to bring the Russo-Japanese war to an end; in 1913 to Elihu Root, for his work in organizing an international tribunal; and in 1920 to Woodrow Wilson for his peace influence in the world war.

In those years the awards went into the field of doctrine more than the field of action. Elihu Root, secretary of the international peace bureau at Bern, and Alfred Gobat, chief of the international peace bureau, divided it. William R. Cremer, secretary of the International Arbitration League, got it all one year. The Institute of International Right got it another as an organization. The Baroness Bertha von Suttner was given it. It was divided between Ernesto T. Moneta, president of the Lombardy Peace Union, and Louis Renault, professor of international law. And so on and so on.

It was in a field of ideas and abstraction, promotion and exhortation, writing and pamphleting, doctrine and discussion, of secretaries, printing presses, and solicitation of contributions, of hall rental, carfare, and addresses of welcome.

Now it seems to be almost as practical as a subsidy. The foreign ministers of three powers who some day may have the question of peace or war on the table before them for a word which will turn the decision one way or another, or who may have their pens in hand to write letters of such consequences, are decorated as angels of peace. May they prove to be so.

ALLIES IN THE LEGISLATURE.

The Chicago and Cook county committee for constitutional representation has changed its name to the Illinois apportionment commission. The change is significant. The failure of the legislature to reapportion the state since 1901 has prejudiced the interests not only of Chicago but of every other city of importance in the state. The cities are growing more rapidly than the country districts, many of which are actually losing population. East St. Louis, Springfield, Peoria, and Rockford are underrepresented in the legislature and their irritation is growing with the realization that they must remain underrepresented until there is a general redistricting. In recognition of that fact, invitations have been sent by the Chicago committee to downstate cities to join in the fight for constitutional rights and the name of the committee has been changed in anticipation of their acceptance.

In many of the rural communities throughout the state a vigorous propaganda has kept alive the traditional distrust of the farmer for the city man. We do not believe the other Illinois cities share that distrust. In their relations with the state government they stand with Chicago. All Illinois cities find that approval of their legitimate ambitions is likely to be held up in the legislature by the representatives of rural rotten boroughs, intent upon making as good a thing as possible out of the cities' needs.

A RECORD OF PUBLIC SERVICE.

Charles H. Wacker concludes seventeen years of notable public service by his retirement from the office of chairman of the Chicago plan commission. His term in office covered a period in Chicago history marked by an unprecedented city development and improvement.

The part played by the Chicago plan commission in the plan's growth has been of great importance and worthy of public appreciation and memory.

The plan commission has been an initiating force, a force to press in the right direction, an expert bureau of advice, and a liaison agent and a clearing house for the great civic improvements of the last fifteen years.

We take from an annual report of the commission a list of some of the major improvements whose intent, in the words of the report, is to "make Chicago a better place in which to live" and "to maintain Chicago's commercial standing among the progressive cities of the nation."

Some of these projects are the original conceptions of the plan commission; others have originated independently and have been approved and fostered by the commission. All have been benefited by the fact that the plan commission initiated and has maintained a comprehensive design of the direction and extent of the city's growth. The improvements and projects are as follows:

Reclamation of the lake-front for public use; beaches and boulevards, notably the lake front drives and South Park way; the Field museum and Wacker's field.

The Union station and Illinois Central terminal; Michigan avenue widening and the lake bridge; Roosevelt road; Canal street; South Water street—now Wacker drive. Furtherance of a street system connecting all parts of the city; through streets; wide radiating and belt highways. Among the more important street improvements in which the commission has had a part are: Archer, Ashland, Cicero, Milwaukee, Ogden, Peterson, and Western avenues, and Clark, Halsted, La Salle, Market, Robey, and 22d streets.

Some of these improvements are completed, others under way or contemplated.

In addition, the commission has aided in developing aviation fields; in erecting a suitable Criminal court building and jail; in planning adequate harbor facilities; in the river straightening project; in formulating and upholding the zoning law; and in the project for a new postoffice.

It is a notable list of achievement and his contemplation, as Mr. Wacker hands over his place to James Simpson, should bring him a gratifying sense of worth while work well done. Mr. Wacker deserves the praise and thanks of Chicago for a public service the value of which will be more and more appreciated with time, as Chicago builds on the foundations laid down during Mr. Wacker's term in office.

THE PRICE OF A PEDIGREE.

Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraten, a siphon of the noblest blood in Europe, has been suing his countess, the former Millicent Rogers, for separation, maintenance, restoration of conjugal rights, alimony, custody of his infant son, and his cut. The hearing of his case adjourned abruptly Thursday in New York and immediately reports reached the reporters that a settlement somewhere between $100,000 and $1,000,000 was being considered.

The case is similar to many with which our ancestors were familiar in the days when a novel was poked under the sofa pillow if callers came and when the Friday Night Debating society discussed.

"Resolved: That This Stage Is An Influence for Evil." It had many forms: "East Lynne," "Nelly, the Beautiful Croak Model," "Wedded but No Wife," "Bertha the Match Girl," "The Demon Duke," etc.

In those days, which were before the ladies put their feet on the seats in the smoking car, Clarence had beautiful whiskers and bad habits and Leonora was pure as the driven snow but not well packed in the head and heart. The consequences were what might be imagined and frequently are better not described.

These are different days, but human beings in their relations to each other continue to revert to old forms. It is, however, the trusting male who gets the worst of it. In this case the young nobleman, innocent and gay, was playing tennis on his broad mortgaged acres when the heelress to $40,000 driving by was attracted by his fresh young charm. The consequences, alas, were those with which the impoverished European nobility is all too familiar.

The count concedes that there was a marriage ceremony and no one has appeared to reveal that the minister was phony and in reality One Eyed Mike, master of the dog kennels. It is also conceded that his wedding trip bills were paid and he was supplied with cigarettes and other luxuries. There were dream days for the tender and confiding count. But, alas!

Presently it was discovered that he was about to become a father and from on we have the old, old story. Family servants carried him out and put him in the ash can. That night it snowed. No one paid any attention to the pale face against the pane or to the spot which revealed in the morning where he had been sitting out the long night on the front steps. Forlorn and hopeless, he drifted away. We next hear of him in the gay resorts of Paris and Vienna, trying to drown his sorrows. There was no golden hair to hang down his back, but otherwise it was just tell them that you saw me. But gayety cannot efface these things. He had been stripped of his most priceless possession. It had been taken from him and then he had been given the air. He had been deprived of all his pedigree.

PLANNING • BUILDING • GROWING

Surpassing Every Day What Was the Dream of Yesterday

CHICAGO is the prodigy among the world's large cities, for it has always accomplished the phenomenal. From the day it was founded to the present, it has exceeded the most ambitious plans of its backers. And the faith they had in Chicago has not only been realized but has been rewarded to a degree beyond all measure.

Ninety years ago, a town of 4,000—today it is a metropolis of more than 3,000,000! Chicago's phenomenal growth astounds the world. In less than one hundred years Chicago has not only equaled but has surpassed in size, wealth and culture many great cities centuries old.

Thousands of people have grown wealthy by Chicago's spectacular increases in real estate values which accompanied the city's growth. Through good times and bad—the money panic of 1857, the Chicago Fire of 1871 and the financial panic which followed this disaster—real estate values here have continued unwaveringly their rapid climb.

Untold fortunes have been made in Chicago real estate, and many more are yet to be made. The same forces that brought rapid development in the past are operating now and will continue to operate for many generations to come.

Chicago is the commercial center of America. Through its gates is distributed the bulk of the nation's requirements in foodstuffs, machinery, clothing and household articles. In this great metropolis is found every advantage essential to intense industrial development—nearness to raw materials, an abundant water supply, a wealth of industrial sites, ample power, the cheapest water transportation on earth, and unequaled railroad facilities.

With these forces at work, rapid future growth is inevitable. The public utility companies recognize this fact and are planning for a Metropolitan Chicago of 6,600,000 population in 1950—less than 25 years away. Chicago is now rapidly approaching that size. Chicago property values are reflecting this growth, and real estate investors are profiting therefrom.

Krenn & Dato's faith in Chicago is substantiated by millions of dollars invested in planning, building and improving some of the finest developments in the country. To this faith is largely due the phenomenal growth of Krenn & Dato—a growth which fully reflects the public confidence enjoyed by the firm. Krenn & Dato stands pledged to the service of Chicago and is working to help others realize the golden promise held in store for them by this great city.

MEXICAN TROOPS DRIVE ON HILLS HELD BY YAQUIS

Hope to Force Decisive
Battle in Open.

By JOHN CORNRYN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

GUAYMAS, Sonora, Mexico, Dec. 10.—A week ago, Ortiz, the commander of the Mexican army operating against the Yaqui Indians, 3,000 troops were stationed. Today only a small guard of less than 500 troops are there. Along the Southern Pacific line the troops have gone, circling the north. Bataille, commanding the home of the Yaquis, on a drive against the Indians. Bands of Indian women and children who have been captured are being driven in.

Escaping through the military line, the Yaquis have reached the weakest link in the chain of steel being drawn about the Yaquis by the federal army, a band of Indians yesterday swept down on the country between the mountains and the ocean. The Southern Pacific between Corral and Tonichi had been cut by the Yaquis. Twice in the last ten days the Southern Pacific has announced the reopening of the Corral-Tonichi line, which has remained closed since the Yaquis cut it up. Gen. Alvaro Obregon's order Sept. 1. The reopening today was again postponed.

More Troops Go to Front.

Troop trains went through here today to head off the Indians reported to be spreading over the Tonichi district. Several hundred federal soldiers have been guarding the construction gangs working on the reconstruction and repair of the Tonichi road, which was also greatly damaged by the recent floods.

It was reported here today that Yaquis have been operating in the mountains of Chihuahua for two months or more.

Airplanes have been sent to Cajeme, where new aviation field has been established, to trace the Indians, should they continue eastward.

Hope to Force Decisive.

It was reported here today that the troops moving up the valley of the Yaqui river toward Tonichi are largely cavalry, owing to the unfavorable nature of the terrain for infantry operations. The cavalry will take military possession of the line, as it has done all down the southern branch of the Southern Pacific from Guaymas to Cajeme, where the Yaquis, a tiny military force, have been set up.

At Ortiz yesterday, Mexican officers talked freely of the approaching battle with the Yaquis, by which the federal troops expect to force the Yaquis from their natural entrenchments in the Bataille range into the country to the east, where the Indians have no large supplies and do not know the country as well.

Mexican Aid to Nicaraguan Rebels Stirs Latin America

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Dec. 10.—The Central American republics are excited over the situation in Nicaragua, brought about by the refusal of the United States to recognize the Liberal Sacas government, and its recognition of the Conservative Diaz government, which means recognition of the insurgents' régime under former Vice President Sacas. Guatemala's mediation offer has added another complication.

The Central American nationalistic movement, being stirred by Mexico's attitude toward Nicaragua, and the reports that gun runners are being conducted from Vera Cruz to Puerto Cabezas, seat of the Nicaraguan rebel government, by a Mexican garrison.

Says Panama Can't Escape.

The newspapers of Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatemala, and Panama emphasize the situation. The Panama Diario says that the trouble is of considerable importance in the Latin-American government, adding:

"It is not possible for our republic to escape that situation, due to our geographical position and our bonds with the United States."

The Panamanian foreign secretary, Senor Alvaro, said: "The Sacas government has not sent the Panamanian government any notification. When we receive this notification, if ever, will be when Panama adopts a resolution against the relations with Nicaragua."

Diaz Relies on U. S.

A telegram from Panama to the Managua foreign office, saying: "The installation of the Sacas rebel government at Puerto Cabezas is not affecting and will not affect the legitimate Diaz government, which alone is recognized by the United States state department and a majority of the countries of America and Europe. We have sufficient of an army and munitions, but will not use them because peace will be enforced at any moment by cooperation of the United States."

BOOMING GUNS USHER CANADA'S 16TH PARLIAMENT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 10.—Amid the booming of cannon and scenes of medieval pageantry, Canada's sixteenth parliament was formally opened today by the new governor general, Lord Willingdon. The speech from the throne heralded the reinstitution of the government's relations with the Canadian nation, including legislation for extensive Canadian National railway branch line construction.

The commission on maritime grievances recommended that the Canadian government make overtures to the United States government for trade treaties which would facilitate the entry of Canadian forestry products and fish into the states.

The Prince of Wales has accepted

may come.

M'DERMOTT AND JURY VISIT GARAGE WHERE MELLETT WAS SLAIN

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Canton, O., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Patrick Eugene McDermott today stood at the garage door before which Don R. Mellett, Canton's crusading editor, was shot down from ambush and watched the jury trying him for the murder. He inspected the scene of the slaying. He saw the jurors retrace the path over which Mellett walked to his death, heard the court bailiffs point out the bushes and telephone pole behind which the underworld gangsters were ambushed, and heard the jury ask questions in return.

All these things apparently affected McDermott, the alleged underworld hirer, not at all. He joked with his guardians and commented banteringly about the proceedings.

Three white and ten men comprise the jury of thirteen.

ALDERMEN BEGIN
WIELDING BUDGET
AX IN EARNEST

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Ending its preliminary hearings on the 1927 city budget, the council finance committee prepared yesterday to start swinging its appropriations ax in earnest with a view to having the budget ready for the first council meeting in January.

The trimming process, it was indicated, will begin Monday on the $15,000 appropriation asked for Mayor Dever's safety commission. Final action on the item was delayed by adjournment, but the aldermen seemed agreed that the commission should be abolished.

"The commission spends most of its time in writing bills in the legislature," said Ald. Guy Guernsey (6th). "If it could do some real educational work toward cutting down the automobile death toll, I'd be for it, but it seems to be accomplishing little."

To Ask Bowler's View.

Before deciding the fate of the commission, however, the committee voted to ask Ald. Thomas Bowler (4th), one of its members, to defend it if he wishes.

Dispute of Long Standing.

The controversy as to the right of the judges to dictate the size of their salaries has been a source of long-standing trouble.

In order to establish 300 new voting precincts, the board of election commissioners asked that the controller's estimate of their needs be increased from $1,481,000 to $1,555,000. It was agreed to increase the appropriation sufficiently to permit one additional 75 new precincts at $33 each.

The meeting became stormy when

Bernard W. Snow, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, presented the increased salary schedule for court employees and told the committee its adoption was mandatory upon them. Judges of the court, he said, have agreed that the 220 bailiffs, now receiving $1,800 to $2,100 a year, should have increases of $300 to $500 and that thirty more should be employed.

Judges of the court, he said, have agreed that the 220 bailiffs, now receiving $1,800 to $2,100 a year, should have increases of $300 to $500 and that thirty more should be employed.

Dispute of Long Standing.

The controversy as to the right of the judges to dictate the size of their salaries has been a source of long-standing trouble.

In order to establish 300 new voting precincts, the board of election commissioners asked that the controller's estimate of their needs be increased from $1,481,000 to $1,555,000. It was agreed to increase the appropriation sufficiently to permit one additional 75 new precincts at $33 each.

The meeting became stormy when

"Whispering" Book
Stirs England to Wrath; Is MuzzledBy Sidney Dark,
English Critic

LONDON.—Special Correspondence.—A volume of alleged reminiscences called "The Whispering Gallery: Being Leaves from a Diplomat's Journal" to the forthcoming publication of which I referred a fortnight ago, has created something of a sensation here, and on the protests of the Daily Mail, not naturally incensed by what may be great people regard as apocryphal interviews with Lord Northcliffe, the publishers, the John Lane company, have been compelled to very humble pie, to withdraw the book from circulation, and to pledge themselves to destroy all copies still in their possession.

The "Diplomat's Journal" is a fourth part of the series, "Letters to the

Lord Balfour, Lord Oxford, Lord

Cecil, Lord Reading, and Mr. Churchill

have been promptly disowned. The name of the diarist was not divulged, but it is now said and promptly denied that it is Sir Reginald Ross, a distinguished man of letters.

It is amazing that a publishing house with a great reputation should put out a volume without ample evidence of its authenticity, and it might have been supposed that the veriest tyro of a publisher's reader

would have known that the book was not written by a member of a profession in which success is still dependent upon a modicum of taste and skill. Attacks upon the reputation of dead men are becoming a gross

scandal in volumes of "chatty mem-" ories." They are bad enough when their authorship is acknowledged.

They become an intolerable outrage

when they come from the pen of anonymity. In addition to Lord Northcliffe, Mr. Cecil, Mr. Balfour,

Lord Kitchener, and other well known

men of the immediate past are misrepresented in "The Whispering Gallery,"

the author of which has been wittily described as "the gentleman with the knuckleduster." It is said that many thousand copies have already been sent out across the Atlantic.

Arnold Bennett has been persuaded by his friend, Lord Beaverbrook, to contribute a weekly literary causerie

to the Evening Standard, one of Lord

Beaverbrook's organs. For a considerable time Bennett wrote such causeries—and very delightful they were in the New Statesman, in which he had a large following.

And his admirers' their names are legion;

for they are many, will welcome his reappearance in the world of criticism.

Journalism is, indeed, attracting Bennett a good deal in these days. In one of this week's Sunday papers there is an article from this distinguished evidence: "How to Keep Servants: Mis-

trials Must Know Her Job and Command Respect."

Stephen Gwynne, the Irish critic and poet, who before the revolution was a

Nationalist member of parliament, has written a delightful volume, "The Exiles of Ireland," in which he has made a fine book, in a sense the inside history

of an epoch of English history,

but Mr. Gwynne's literary stories are perhaps more interesting than his political recollections. He once told

Wells that he was going to see W. B.

Wells, but when he met him, he said,

"Wells, you are as ugly as a dog."

Wells crinkled up his nose as if a dog

does at the sight or sound of another,

the odor of which is unsympathetic.

"Yeats," he said, "Yeats doesn't like science." And to this may be added

Yeats' description of Wells as a man

"who is the mind of a second man."

Perhaps the best story in the book concerns Gladstone and the witty

Irish priest, Father Healy. The English statesman was denouncing the doctrine of indulgences. "Father

Healy," he said, "I saw with my own eyes a church in Verona, a notice

offering to remit 40,000 years of purgatory for the sum of 200 lire."

"It was a fair offer," said the priest, "and I don't know where you'd go to get better."

"Experiences of a Literary Man"

is very charming book.

A. G. Gardner has something like genius for the making of pen portraits. He never misses the essentials and is never deluded by externals. His new book, "Certain People of Importance," is well worth reading.

"Israfel" Is Poe's
Biography Done
in Alluring Style

By FANNY BUTCHER.
"Israfel," by Hervey Allen. [Doran.]
Hervey Allen has done the definitive life of Edgar Allan Poe in "Israfel."

The shelves

full of biographies and

books about

the half

mad poet

might be seen often without permanent loss

of truth to

mankind if

"Israfel"

only was saved. It is not only a meticulous

biography—

with every

faintest clue

followed to

its last and every tradition stripped to its bone—but it is a biography which in itself makes a book of the most exciting allurement.

It is not necessarily a part of criticism that I am about to say, and one time—when the same thing

happened with Carl Sandburg's Lincoln, and I spoke of it my jolly confrère, Keith Preston, said that it was against all rules of life reviewers' union—but it seems very significant to me that, a little jaded as we all are

when the terrific rush of books comes, this special thing should have happened.

"Israfel" is a matter of some nine hundred rather closely printed pages,

with footnotes and appendices, and the pages luxuriously large. Many another book of its bulk has, even when there was no cavalcade of other books

marrying by in their holiday dash and

dash, and finally at half past twelve,

shivering with the tragedy of the thing and the eeriness of a quiet midnight, I finished it.

Without being in any way burnished

up to fit the occasion, or overwritten

or overintellectualized or on any page

done with anything but the most calm

judgment, the story of "Israfel,"

"whose heart strings are a lute," is one of the most moving, the most bizarre, the most intriguing and the most deviling of all the stories of human beings as recorded by Mr.

Allen. Every other life of Poe I have read has been trying to prove something, that he was a rotter, that he was grossly mistreated and misjudged,

that he was entirely unsexed, that he was the great lover, and that all sorts of things. Mr. Allen, by merely stating the verified facts, makes of him so

a notable first novel... a powerful completeness or so forcefully. A

WOOD BIOGRAPHY OF AMY LOWELL
HAS NO RESERVE

"Amy Lowell," by Clement Wood. [Vinal.]

Clement Wood has written a most frank and a little unkind critical biography of Amy Lowell, burnished up with the convenient phrase, "the truth." He has no reserves, either about her corpulence, or her mental abnormalities. He makes her a "case," rather than a human being. It is a strange and, to me, purposely crude biography.

I do not know Clement Wood, but I suspect from one paragraph in which he tells of a meeting which he had with Miss Lowell which left her in tears because she couldn't convince him that he was wrong about her critical judgment, that he is not with us for your a grudge against us.

This book is certainly repayment for anything she might ever have said against him either privately or in print. And if it is not written with bitterness, it certainly shows no real attempt to understand the poet from the outside. It is purely a study from the outside.

Juarez and Maximilian.

The ex-Empress Charlotte of Mexico, sister of the late King Leopold II, and famed as the widow of the ill-fated Maximilian, is now 86 years old, living in a magnificent villa in a suburb of Brussels. She has never yet been told that her husband was executed at the Jemison rebels in Mexico City in 1867. She has been insane since the morning in that year when she dipped her fingers in the pope's chocolate and threw some breakfast cakes in his face. Franz Werfel's play, dealing with that central situation, was published in book form simultaneously with its opening in New York.

The same vivid interest in the Troubadours and their accounts was felt in those far off days when there were no books on the subject. The designation of scandal and sex and no political paragraphs who celebrated the virtues of politicians.

This is the fireside celebration which Miss Butcher recalls to us in her little story of our tranquil yesterday, when the men and women who made the city worked and had faith and, curiously, in the midst of herculean leisure.

It is pleasant reading, and Miss Butcher, in the space of her little book, shows so much talent for creating a period atmosphere that the fact she spends her time in reviewing other people's books rather than writing her own becomes a matter for regret.

Here we find history embellished to suit our modern needs and taste with a lively style and exhilarating story interest throughout. The artist, Giovanni Petrina, seems to have caught the spirit of the author in his times, and supplementing the work with strong, bold, yet very artistic illustrations of the chateaux and beauty spots of France, including Cavaillon and Avignon.

Elmer Looks Forward to Duce's Speech
And Meanwhile Enjoys Other Programs.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.
The instant that Announcer Bill Hay dashed to the world last evening the information that Tita Schipa has been included with the names of Premier Mussolini and the singers, Raisa, Rini, and Lazar, whose voices are to be heard from W-G-N's studio next Tuesday evening, there flashed through my mind the thought that here at last a broadcast as great in importance as the everyday radio, radio listener or not, wants to hear it. It is to be hoped every listener in Chicago can tune in W-G-N from 9:30 until the close of that program.

Last evening was interesting for the large number of radio broadcasts.

The Rev. Edward B. Hougham, traveling in Italy, WENR, 7 to 145, faithfully flashed with color and romance as Venice, "Jewel of the Sea," was depicted by speech, and, musically, too, for music frequently was used as a background.

The recital by Saska Corado, lyrical baritone, W-G-N, 7:30 to 8, was a pure musical delight. Not only was she of a smooth, lovely, and colorful character, but the program was superb, made up of Brahms, German leider, French songs, and Italian songs.

The talk by Ernest Thompson Seton from New York, through W-G-N, did not appeal to this writer, but the fact that it was Mr. Seton did make it have weight.

The special 8 to 10 program at WENR was partly very good and partly indifferent but interesting.

The program by Floyd Jones, evangelistic tenor, WEBH, 8:30, was interesting in that it traced the singer's history through concert, oratorio, and through sacred song to the evangelistic field. The 7 to 8 program by the Edgewater Beach hotel orchestra was excellent indeed.

The Anglo-Persian's orchestral program, New York, through W-G-N, 9 to 10, was a model for program builders to follow. Everything was snappy and happy, whether the numbers were classical or popular—and there was speed.

The piano recital by Ruth Bradley, WMAQ, 9:30, was too, too short. Here is an artist who can play a happy, unfamiliar number by Brahms and make it sound like real, human music.

He was successively an owner of the Timberman, editor of the National Laundry Journal, and founder of Hardwood. The Ragged Edge

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND.

SYNOPSIS.
Garrison Boyd, owner and navigator of the yacht Rigel, anchored in the harbor at Bremuda, is about to start a scientific expedition around the world. He is accompanied by his sister, Carlill, and a party of scientists. Carlill meets Bengal who has brought his yacht Ganga to Bremuda on a secret mission. Bengal asks him to tag along with the Rigel. Obtaining Boyd's consent, Bengal asks Jim Howland and daughter Gertrude to accompany him. As they are about to leave, a widow at one of the Hamilton hotels loses her jewels and Carlill is suspected of the theft.

INSTALLMENT VII.
BENGAL TO THE RESCUE.

"Yes," Carlill mused, "India certainly gave this child of her bosom something besides blue black hair and dreamy brown eyes. She would scarcely grow up without some inheritance of trouble, a birth tax set with her seal. I read that India is like that, and comes to a focus in Calcutta. You would do me a favor if you could help her out of that difficulty."

He nodded, absently. "For a price. India never does anything for nothing."

"What price, my rescue?"

"Benefit of clergy, at the first chance."

Her eyes shone at him, and the crooked smile twisted her thin red lips.

"You'd want to marry me, kleptomaniac and all?"

"Yes, I would count on finding a counterpoise for that, or persuading the Gods to take off the curse."

"Pure pagan, aren't you. The Old Gods would need some stirring up. I'd have to do a lot of unravelling. It's woven into the texture of me, Bengal, and when they got it pulled out there might be much Jeet. I've read that I was a fascinating baby, and whenever some pretty lady leaned over to inspect me I would grab at her pendant or earrings and hang on. She could always quiet me in cold or teasing by giving me a big polished amethyst she had. I hadn't learned values then."

"It's a curse that they exist. Amethysts are really more beautiful than pearls."

Carlill shook her sun faded khaki curls. "Only to the child or savage to the eye of the initiate. As though any might find a healthy normal life in them."

"I'm—Anita—Hynes, new Member of her daughter's class. Member of Silver Lodge, 521, O. O. F., and Codge Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and Bradcock, Pa., and the like."

He nodded, absently. "For a price. India never does anything for nothing."

"Yes, I would count on finding a counterpoise for that, or persuading the Gods to take off the curse."

"Pure pagan, aren't you. The Old Gods would need some stirring up. I'd have to do a lot of unravelling. It's woven into the texture of me, Bengal, and when they got it pulled out there might be much Jeet. I've read that I was a fascinating baby, and whenever some pretty lady leaned over to inspect me I would grab at her pendant or earrings and hang on. She could always quiet me in cold or teasing by giving me a big polished amethyst she had. I hadn't learned values then."

"It's a curse that they exist. Amethysts are really more beautiful than pearls."

Carlill shook her sun faded khaki curls. "Only to the child or savage to the eye of the initiate. As though any might find a healthy normal life in them."

"I'm—Anita—Hynes, new Member of her daughter's class. Member of Silver Lodge, 521, O. O. F., and Codge Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and Bradcock, Pa., and the like."

He nodded, absently. "For a price. India never does anything for nothing."

"Benefit of clergy, at the first chance."

Her eyes shone at him, and the crooked smile twisted her thin red lips.

"You'd want to marry me, kleptomaniac and all?"

"Yes, I would count on finding a counterpoise for that, or persuading the Gods to take off the curse."

Horror!

When I was 18, I lived at a girl's club where we were required, after each meal, to wash our napkins carefully, stack our dishes and carry them into the kitchen.

A friend whom I had just met, and whom I wished to impress, invited me to dinner at an exclusive hotel. I found him extremely interesting, and through the conversation he told me his life story. He was telling a story when we were preparing to leave, and in my abstraction I folded my napkin, stacked all the dishes around me in a neat pile, and stood up, holding them in my hands.

My digestion was increased by the amused glances of the waiter, and the nearby diners, particularly when my escort said, "If you don't mind, we had better leave the plates." F. L.

Two year old Jean had a new born at the hospital. She excited about it and took a lot of interest in the basins he arrangements for the reconnection. When the baby was with her mother she had it for Jean to see her little and she looked up at her and said, "Is that all there is?"

Two little boys came home with the other afternoon, and asked him if he had any. She answered, "No, mom; we're at our house 'cept me."

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Even His Best Friends Won't Tell Him

BY NANCY R.—

Winnie evidently been working over a lot of late, for I have news of two engagements and one wedding this morning.

The first engagement is that of Frances Wood, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Shroyer of Chicago. Since the death of her mother three years ago—Mrs. Wood is one of Chicago's well known and beloved women—Frances and her mother, Louise, have divided their time between this, the city of their birth, New York, and Europe, especially, where she is sister of the two sisters, who are now teaching in Miss Risner's school for several months, and will be here this winter. She has not yet set the date for her wedding.

Mr. John Hardin is giving a buffet dinner this evening for the newly engaged and said that all their young friends are gathered to wish them well.

For the rest, this the city of their birth, New York, and Europe, especially, where she is sister of the two sisters, who are now teaching in Miss Risner's school for several months, and will be here this winter. She has not yet set the date for her wedding.

INDIANA AND OHIO WIN CAGE OPENERS

FOUR TEAMS TIED FOR LEAD IN NEW YORK BIKE RACE

39 LAPS STOLEN IN NIGHT OF WILD RIDING

Georgetti-Belloni
Catch Pace Setters.

New York, Dec. 10. (Special)—Mc-

Namara-Linari, Winter, Stockholm,

Georgetti-Belloni went into a tie for the lead of the six day bicycle race at the Garden tonight.

Midnight found the teams holding the pace, but one minute later there was a different sight. Georgetti and Belloni, who were trailing by a lap, went out to catch up with the three leaders and that started a scramble for supremacy which lasted nearly half an hour.

Georgetti and Belloni caught up with the leaders, but when they tried to pass them they found stern opposition. In the second half of the jam McNameara and Linari, Stockholm and Winter and Georgetti and Stockelync won along with the Italians and when it was over all four teams were tied for the lead.

Petri-Lands Move Up.

Petri and Lands gained two laps during the turbulent traffic conditions and moved up to three laps back of the head of the column. Walker and Beckman also gained two laps and the combination of Garrison and Coles Leaf, from Sir Clifford Sifton's Toronto stable, third. So close was the finish that already tired leaders had to fight for supremacy in a grueling jump off.

The leaders were more closely matched than they had been for several days when the evening session started. During the afternoon there was much fast and furious riding by the entries, and when a rest Stockholm and Winter, who had emerged to the front in the early hours of the morning, were sharing the leadership with Goosens and Stockelync. This latter pair picked up three laps on the pace setters.

Race Grips Fans.

Another enthusiastic throng filled the Garden for the evening session and though the long grind was over by 10 o'clock with a hour of rest, which promises to turn into the greatest jam of them all. Points in the last hour of the race will score as follows: 72 for first, 4 for second, 2 for third, and 1 for fourth. The standing champion, Roll Royce, was the favorite to win the race. The judges had allowed the cheers and applause of the gay crowd to influence them. Miss America would not have captured the championship. The spectators, those in the boxes and galleries alike, were with June Night, a sleek black mare, owned and ridden by diminutive George A. Strom Jr. of Chico, Calif.

Young Mr. Strom, only in his early teens, and June Night were the favorites from the time they first put in their appearance in the ring, and as they glided gracefully over one difficult hurdle after another, they aroused the horse show patrons to a new stage of enthusiasm.

Rolls Royce is Victor.

And even when the others were still young, Strom and June Night were still on the rails, despite their landing no nearer the championship than fourth place.

Another show championship was decided during the evening when Rolls Royce, a giant of the five gaited saddle horses division, won the title.

It was a fairly comfortable margin over Silver Crest from the Daley Crest stables of Nasvhille. Rolls Royce is a Chicago colorbearer owned by Mrs. Daniel A. Orth.

One of the most spectacular events of show week wound up last night's program when Heelock, owned by Ed Ward J. Lehman, won the Corinthian class for hunters and jumpers. Riders were in hunt liveries and the competition was close among the 28 entries.

Awards last night were as follows:

RUSSIAN EXPORTS LARGE FACTOR IN WHEAT DECLINES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liberal exports of wheat from Russia, a raising in estimates on the Argentine exportable surplus, and pressure from the local element caused prices here off 2¢ to a low of $1.35¢ for May, and the finish was well toward the inside figures with net losses of 14¢ to 15¢, with December leading.
The latest closed at $1.37¢ @ 1.37¢,
15¢ under May, while July was $1.21¢ @ 1.21¢.

Offered liquidation developed in some grain early, but the offerings were absorbed on resting orders and against bids, and corn closed only 2¢
to lower with December 7¢; May, 2¢ 49¢ July and, 85¢. Oats showed independent, with December gained 4¢ 45¢, with December, 44¢, and May,
8¢ 45¢. Ryegrass lost 4¢ 45¢ over
May, and May 9¢ 45¢.

Wheat Traders Bearish.

Local operators have been talking bearish on wheat for several days, and is took but relatively little pressure to start the market downward. Liverpool was weak and 1¢ 14¢ lower, while Russia cleared 2,472,000 bu. for export for the week, the largest total in some time,
while Brothman's Argentine agent reported a 100,000 bu. increase in shipments upward by 7,000,000 bu., making it the highest figure so far. An Argentine government official estimate was due to be given out overnight.
While the forecast was for rain in Argentine, cables late in the day reported conditions as fair in all provinces, and Buenos Aires was 4¢ lower.

Wheat in Wisconsin was 1¢ 16¢
lower in December than 8¢ 45¢ under Chicago helped along the decline in American markets and the cash basis
there was off 2¢ as compared with futures, with the ice condition in the Soo expected to result in much smaller clearances during the next few days than anticipated. Late navigation closes at midweek Sunday.

There has been a much larger export business in Manitoba of late than has been reported, one seaboard exporter confirming 4,000,000 bu. sold, while the business during the day was finally placed at 500,000 to 600,000 bu. Local cash premiums were unchanged to 2¢ lower with red winter leading the decline.

Corn Has Strong Rally.

Local and scattered long-term sellers of corn were relatively on the loose to-borders, but the break brought in a broader outside demand, and with buying against bids brought about a rally of 4¢ 45¢ from the inside figure. Many local traders are bearish and have been putting out short lines the last few days.
Country offerings, however, remain light,
and there was talk of a better shipping demand, with part of the sales not reported. About 75 per cent of the receipts of 148 cars were from the new crop.

Local bulls were aggressive on the buying side of oats, and found offerings light after the surplus in the pit had been absorbed, a sharp bulge coming toward the close of the day, with 15¢ about the top. Cash buyers bought December and sold May at 4¢ 45¢ difference. Trade in rice was light, and market easier in sympathy with wheat, with no change on the break that was regarded as against export business.

LARD PRICES BREAK

Liquidation of long January lard carried prices lower, enabling cotton oil interests to get a good buy and sell, and the general trade rather bearish. At the close traders were buying the lowest prices with net losses of 17¢.

Short ribs were 1¢ lower, and butter 1¢
lower in Liverpool, was 3¢ 6¢ lower.
Export clearances of lard from the seaboard
were 2,871,300 lbs and bacon 2,750 lbs.
The latest closed at 7¢ 14¢ to 7¢ 15¢, with arrive before Jan. 1, I have expred and no fresh export business was reported. Price follow:

An excessive supply of hogs yesterday, totaling more than 40,000 fresh and "stale" offerings, forced general average price down $1 at 11,700, within 50 of the lowest in over two weeks, against $1185 the previous Friday. Fresh arrivals overall advance estimates by 6,000. Receipts at 30,000, including 4,100 "directs" were as large as any Friday since early in January, barring the supply following the Thanksgiving holiday.

Stocks, though 10 to 15 lower, trading in, have moved fairly active, larger packers filling moderately large orders at the full decline late, leaving only 5,000 in the pens. Shippers took 11,000, which was fewer than on each of the preceding four Fridays. Prime 250@307 lb butchers took 1,000. Fed hams 100,000, at $11,500-$11,80.

A short run of 4,000 cattle, a third less than expected, cleared at firm prices, yearlings showing gains of 600-750 since a week earlier, with weighty beves 500 under last week's close. Quality as usual in the week was lacking and availability, as always, was limited to $12,000. Good 1,750 lbs. hams stopped at $10,75 and 1,500 pounds at $9,75. Butcher stock ruled steady to strong. Canners held firm. Calves sold at Thursday's decline. Stockers and feeders, fair to steady.

Lambs Bring $12.50.

Fancy sorted killing hams ruled strong to 250 higher, best "sorts" reaching $13.00; while others showed little change in a slow trade. Fresh hams were up about two weeks ago, brought $12,000, against $12.50 a week earlier. Prevailing quotations are fully 25000 under the close of last week, minimum declines in top packers. Yearlings showed a parallel decline, good hams weighty to shippers at $9,75 yesterday. Agouti sheep moved at $10.50-$11.00, gimmers, decline. Feeders and breeders held firm.

Rounds at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 1,000 sheep, against 6,500 cattle, 5,500 hogs and 8,433 sheep, the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 40,000 to $12,000. H. Pattison marked $2,000, A. G. Weisner $7,000, F. R. Burrows, C. Southwick and W. S. Nicholson $5,000, J. M. Waters $3,000, W. C. White and W. T. Reneker $2,500, J. T. Brown and F. W. Young $5,000, F. W. Waddell 40,000 and Wm. Garrett $4,000.

COTTON AVERAGE LOWER

An easy tone prevailed in the cotton market, with prices and close at one medium price. Lower live cotton, especially of bad weather in the south and also checked hedging pressure as southern pressure.

On the break, January had fair support. At the last futures were 3 to 5 points lower with spot cotton, 10 to 12 points to 12,50 and New Orleans off 3 points to 11,50. Prices in leading markets follow:
